This is responsive to the Office Action dated March 1, 2002 in connection with the above-referenced patent application.

IN THE CLAIMS:

The applicant has amended claims 1 - 4 and added claims 5 - 14 as follows:

1. (Amended) A document formatting tool comprising:

means for intercepting data in a document which is being sent to a printer from a print spool;

means for utilizing such intercepted data as a key to a database to determine other information relevant to such data; and means for printing out such data in a format different from that in which it was received by said print spool associated with said printer, such difference being based upon
